1. INTRODUCTION

The Housing Development Agency (HDA) is a national public sector development agency that inter alia has the mandate to identify, acquire, prepare and develop suitable land for human settlements. The agency also undertakes the programme and project management for development of housing and human settlements. We carry out our functions in partnership with a range of stakeholders including national, provincial and local government and municipalities, as well as with communities, developers and financiers.

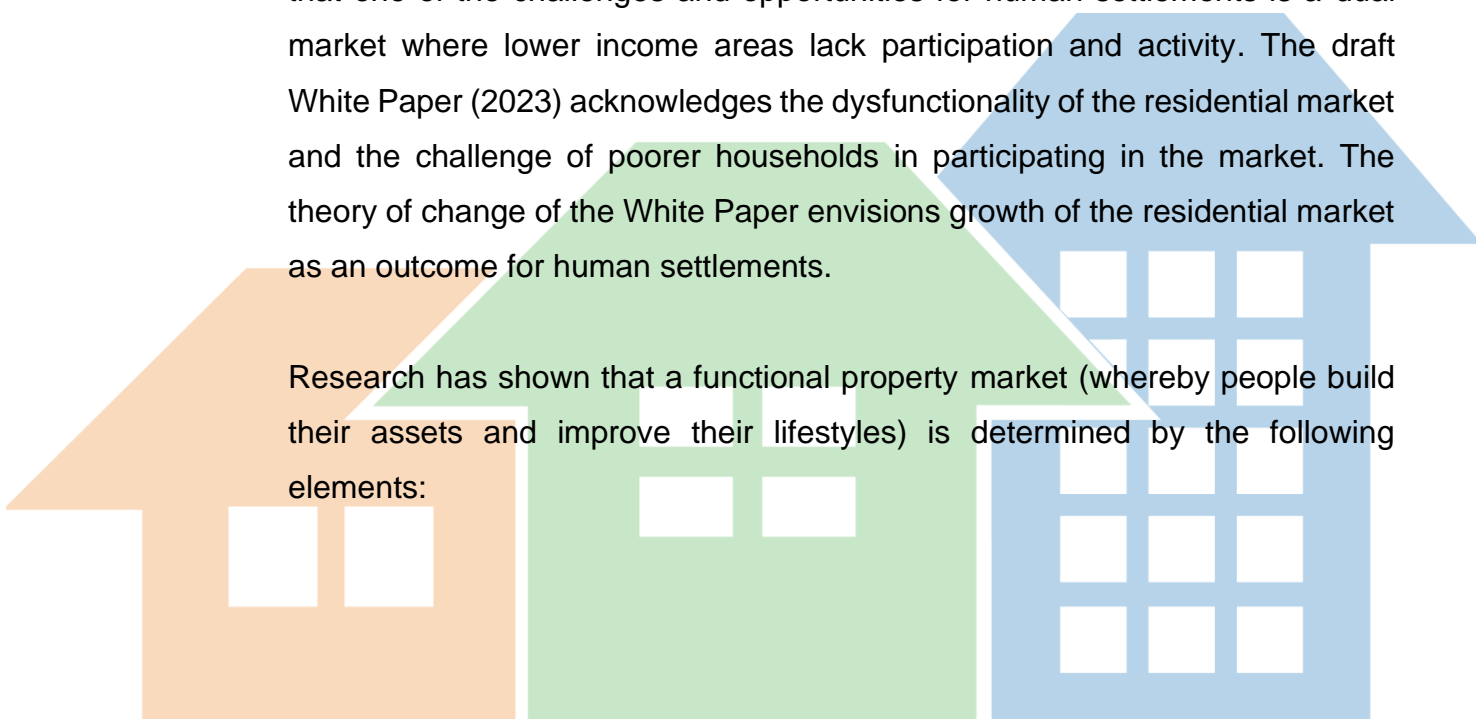

2. BACKGROUND INFORMATION

In setting the agenda and asserting its role in the housing continuum, the HDA seeks to support the National Department of Human Settlements (NDoHS) with the acquisition of Housing Markets Reports in strategically selected Priority Development Areas (PDAs) which aim to spatially transform and consolidate human settlements to as well as respond to the National Development Plan (NDP) which presents a solid case for spatial transformation.

The key objective of the Monitoring and Evaluation, Knowledge Management and Research Planning Unit is (according to the HDA Act, 2008), is 'to monitor the provision of all infrastructure required for housing development'. Central to achieving this objective is the development and deployment of applications and systems to improve business outcomes and drive value across the HDA.

The Integrated Urban Development Framework (IUDF) (COGTA, 2016), notes that one of the challenges and opportunities for human settlements is a dual market where lower income areas lack participation and activity. The draft White Paper (2023) acknowledges the dysfunctionality of the residential market and the challenge of poorer households in participating in the market. The theory of change of the White Paper envisions growth of the residential market as an outcome for human settlements.

Research has shown that a functional property market (whereby people build their assets and improve their lifestyles) is determined by the following elements:

- Property rights that offer holding and trading rights that can potentially be used to participate in the market and grow household assets;
- Functional property governance systems (mapping, planning, administration and valuation) and;
- Functional property markets (access to information, access to finance and access to institutions)

It is therefore in understanding the housing market dynamics on an ongoing basis and the gaps in the level of participation at the PDA level that the HDA can contribute meaningfully to create functionally equitable housing markets within the selected PDAs under study.

With respect to the Draft Medium Term Development Plan (MTDP) 2024 -2029 [see Table 1], the HDA has submitted the target of “Measuring Spatial Transformation with PDAs” using the 13 pillars i.e. 85 indicators.

Table 1:

CHANGING PEOPLE'S LIVES

The 13 pillars and indicators are available in the HDA publications, ‘Pathways to Spatial Transformation’ and ‘The Beneficiary Experience Tracking Application (BETA). Understanding the impact of spatial transformation in human settlements investments.’ (HDA, 2024a; HDA, 2024b). One of the pillars in terms of measuring spatial transformation is Property Markets [See Figure 1]

Thirteen Pillars of Spatial Transformation

The HDA has undertaken a change detection exercise in 2023 comparing indicators from 2020, and a missing indicator is information on change in performance of property markets. A spatial transformation indicator is to measure “Low-income households participating in the property market” (HDA, 2024a: 35). This is because South Africa has a fragmented market where lower income households face constraints to participating in market activity (COGTA, 2016).

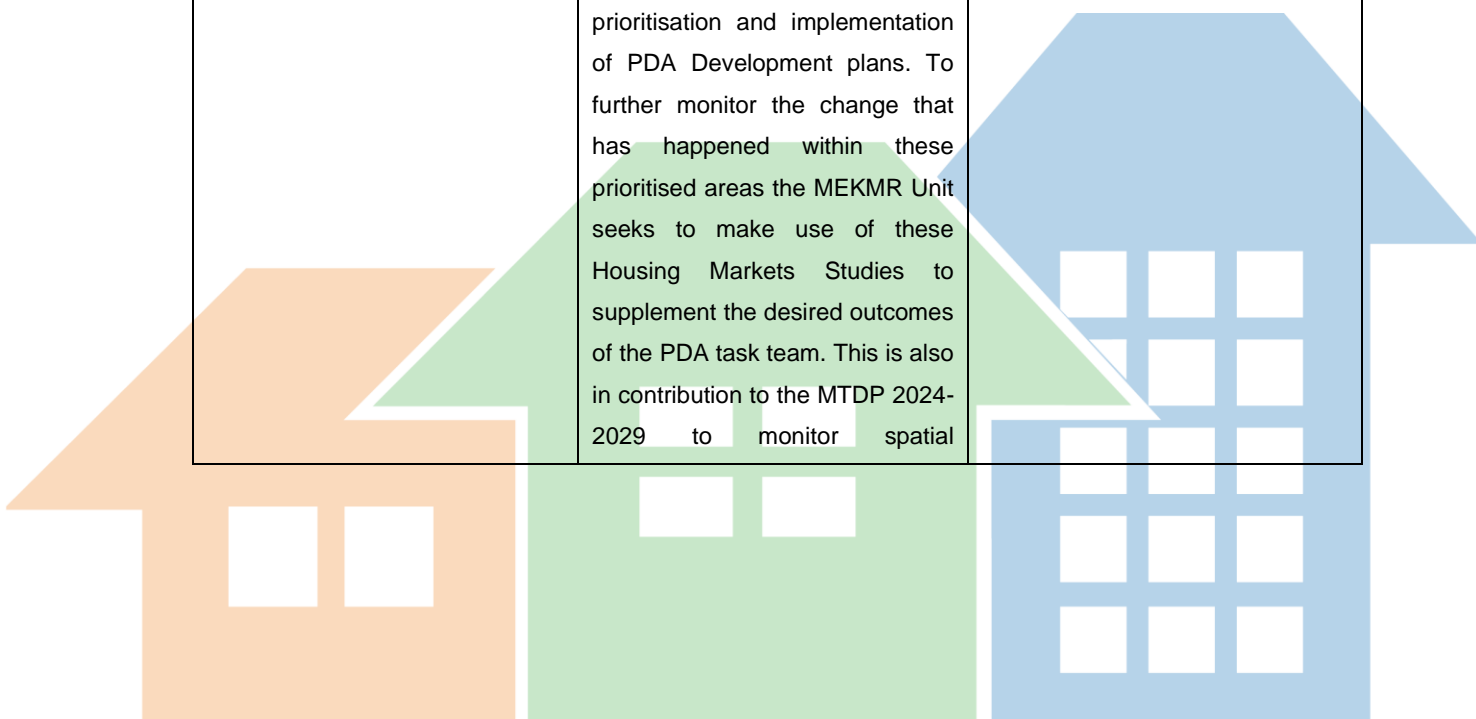

To this end, the HDA seeks the services of a consultancy team to assess housing market indicators to detect change in housing performance [spatial transformation] from 2018 to 2024 in Priority Development Areas (PDAs). The intent is to compute the indicators to reveal trends in housing stock, housing performance, access to finance and mortgage lending activity across the property ladder with a particular focus in the low value market. The team will work under the supervision of the Senior Manager: Monitoring & Evaluation, Knowledge Management and Research.

a. ROADMAP TO THE REALIZATION OF THE ASSESSMENT OF HOUSING MARKET INDICATORS

As mentioned in the previous section, the MEKMR Unit has realized the need for comprehensive housing market data from a growing recognition of the critical role that accurate, up-to-date information plays in shaping housing policy, addressing market gaps, and guiding both public and private sector investments. To this end, it is necessary to map how such data could further assist Human Settlements. The table below summarizes how the need materialized over the financial 2023/2024 financial year.

Financial Year	Engagements	Stakeholders Consulted/ Presented
2023/24	Undertook a change detection in PDAs to the Inter-Ministerial Committee (IMC). Change detection was possible for a variety of indicators and pillars but was unable to be completed for the residential property market. This prompted the need to assess the available market data to further amplify the study as well as findings.	Presented the current change detection to Chief Director for Human Settlements Planning from the Department of Human Settlements and IMC Task Team- October 2023. From this the need for housing market analysis was identified.
2023/24	The MEKMR Unit undertook an exploratory exercise to understand the type of data available as well as the different types of reports which could be generated from Housing Markets data.	Several HDA Units and Regions: Land Unit 12/12/2023 Region A 12/12/2023 Region B 13/12/2023 PP&C 14/12/2023
2024/25	The formulation of the task team for PDAs has focused on the prioritisation and implementation of PDA Development plans. To further monitor the change that has happened within these prioritised areas the MEKMR Unit seeks to make use of these Housing Markets Studies to supplement the desired outcomes of the PDA task team. This is also in contribution to the MTDP 2024-2029 to monitor spatial	Priority Development Area Task Team – 20 th August 2024

3. OBJECTIVE OF THE PROPOSED PROJECT

a. DESIRED OUTCOMES FOR CARRYING OUT THE PROPOSED PROJECT

- Understand how the housing subsidies/state interventions impact the property market in terms of:
 - how many government-subsidised properties (GSP) have appreciated and shifted into higher market segments
 - how many new transactions through government programmes have been transferred to beneficiaries
 - How many resale transactions are of government subsidised properties
- Understand if the sector needs to further incentivize and strengthen its partnership with lenders and investors in terms of:
 - Who are the money lenders in the government-subsidised properties resale market
- Understand the impact of the Government's First Home Finance (FHF) programme in terms of:
 - its activity in the lower and mid-market segment
 - its activity in the resale market
- Understand growth and/or decline in the lower and mid-market segment, in terms of:
 - New and resale transactions
 - Market activity through churn
 - Value and growth of market
 - Growth of lending in this market segment

b. PROJECT BENEFITS TO THE HDA

- Equip us with the necessary datasets and analysis of housing markets performance over the years within selected PDAs from the period 2018-2024 with particular emphasis on government subsidised properties and low-mid market housing activity.
- Enable us to conduct spatial transformation analyses and contribute significantly to the MTDP 2024 – 2029.

- Illustrate the impact of government subsidised properties on the housing market.
- Identify obstacles and opportunities for government subsidised investment and low-mid market growth and activity.
